The Stranger

The Stranger within my gate
He may be true or kind,
But he does not talk my talk -
I cannot feel his mind.
I see the face and the eyes and the mouth,
But not the soul behind.

The men of my own stock
They may do ill or well,
But they tell the lies I am wonted to,
They are used to the lies I tell.
And we do not need interpreters
When we go to buy and sell.

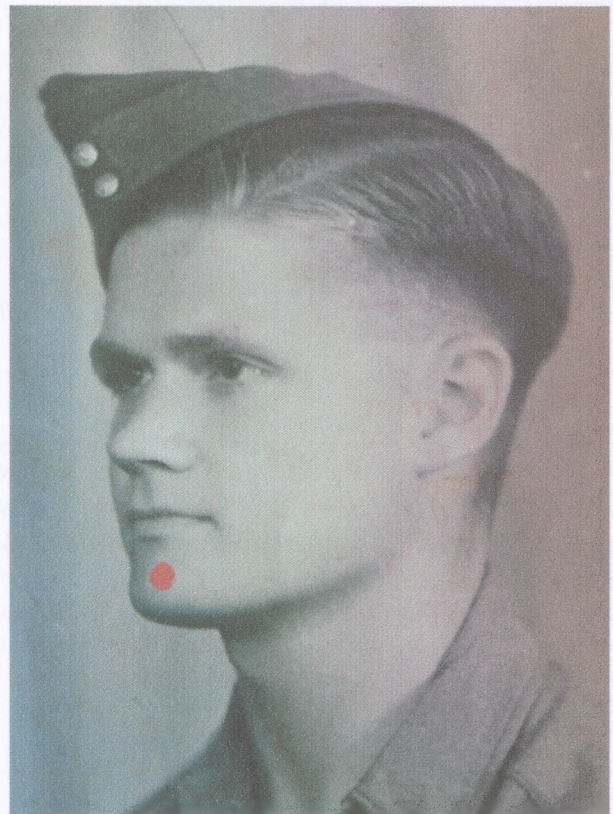

The Stranger within my gates,
He may be evil or good,
But I cannot tell what powers control -
What reasons sway his mood;
Nor when the Gods of his far-off land
Shall repossess his blood.

The men of my own stock,
Bitter bad they may be,
But, at least, they hear the things I hear,
And see the things I see;
And whatever I think of them and their likes
They think of the the likes of me.

This was my father's belief
And this is also mine:
Let the corn be all one sheaf -
And the grapes be all one vine,
Ere our children's teeth are set on edge
By bitter bread and wine.

This 'Albert Mariner' Issue

I did think, but only for a split second, about despoiling the cover of this issue with a mugshot of the present Prime Minister of the United Kingdom or another of the political misfits, and what a selection of swivel eyed-loons to choose from, to illustrate The Stranger by Kipling but knew that would only detract from the article by Stephen Smith about a true Briton. Albert Mariner. The message is anyway obvious to all I am sure.

A very special thank you to those who have both protected and maintained the memory of Albert Mariner and for providing the previously unpublished photograph on our cover.

I re-emphasise that at Candour we use the words Briton or Britons to define and describe ourselves.

We are Britons by blood and NOT British by passport.

Courageous MP, I admit a very few do exist, Andrew Bridgen (Con) calls for complete suspension of mRNA jab in an extraordinary British parliamentary speech

I strongly recommend that you all view this brave speech while it is available online. It was made to a disgracefully empty chamber after the empty vessels fled.

Mr. Bridgen even damns "corporate greed"!

From page 3, column 2, 2nd last paragraph.

"In fact, there are now so many accounts (online) operated by different German authorities that a nationwide agreement has become necessary. Otherwise, these different agents would be targeting each other with surveillance and monitoring."

Something already made very clear about the situation in Britain by GK Chesterton way back in 1908, 2nd cousin of AK, founder of Candour. If you have not already done so do read The Man Who Was Thursday.

...and on the same theme as I write 3,000 police make raids on the homes of so-called 'right wingers' in Germany.

Over the 7/8th of December the 'Reichsbürger' movement got the full police/media treatment when 3,000 police with helicopters and armoured vehicles (and it seems as many journalists) took part in multiple raids on private properties that resulted in the arrest of 25 people. (More arrests to follow so the police claim...) That seems rather disproportionate odds. This false flag non-story was pumped up massively by the fake news merchants of the MSM worldwide.

Meanwhile also in Germany...

The MSM welcomed the distraction from the brutal random murder of a 14-year-old German girl by an Eritrean immigrant in Illerkirchberg, which has once again raised questions about mass immigration at the national level and led the city of Ulm to suspend intake of all refugees. And so on What Big Eyes (and Ears) They Have...

German Domestic Intelligence Actions are Mirrored by British Domestic Security

Agent Provocateur Activity.

Be sensible and alert as we head into 2023...

This article by John Cody is reprinted from REMIX:

rmx.news

“German domestic intelligence is running hundreds of fake right-wing extremist social media accounts.

The operation involving fake right-wing accounts has become so big that information sharing is necessary so authorities do not target each other

Hundreds of radical Nazis and right-wing extremists online are actually German domestic intelligence agents, and many of them may be responsible for “inciting hatred” and even violence. These agents, who once needed to drink and directly socialize with members of the extreme right to gain information on their targets, are now running right-wing extremist accounts online in Germany.

Germany’s Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution (BfV) argues that these accounts are needed to effectively monitor the extreme right, but critics say that they may also be promoting and actively encouraging radicalism, according to a report from German newspaper Suddeutsche Zeitung.

“This is the future of information gathering,” an unnamed head of a relevant state office told Suddeutsche Zeitung.

According to research by the newspaper, the authority has invested in “virtual agents” since 2019, which it finances with taxpayers’ money. Both the federal office and the federal states employ spies, who besides right-wing extremists, are also tasked with keeping an eye on left-wing extremists, Islamists, and the “conspiracy-ideological” scene.

However, the activities of the BfV running hundreds of right-wing extremist accounts have come to light at the same time that Germany’s left-wing government has labeled right-wing extremism the biggest threat to the country, despite data showing that left-wing extremists and radical Islam pose bigger threats. The country’s interior minister, Nancy Faeser, has launched a 10-point plan to fight “right-wing extremism,” and much like the Biden administration in the United States, has turned the domestic security state against political opponents as well as labeling them terrorism threats and a danger to democracy. In Germany’s case, the opposition conservative Alternative for Germany party (AfD) is actively surveilled in certain federal states, with membership in the party the only prerequisite for agents being able to read emails and listen in on telephone calls of these private citizens.

With the BfV operating hundreds of right-wing extremist accounts, the agency argues that it is about “playing a little right-wing radical yourself” in order to gain the trust of other users. The employees of the Office for the Protection of the Constitution are likely to conduct “propaganda” for this and sometimes also commit crimes such as “incitement to hatred.”

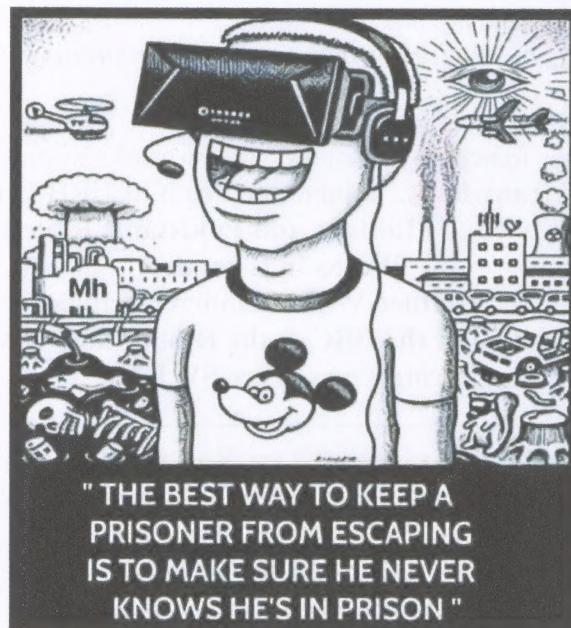

However, what exactly these extremist accounts are posting that involve “incitement to hatred” is unclear, as there is little to no public oversight regarding these activities.

“In order to be really credible, it is not enough to share or like what others say, you also have to make statements yourself. That means that the agents also bully and agitate,” says the report of an agent who claims to have joined the agency to “do something against right-wing extremists.” This involves actively encouraging people in their world view, but she says it is her job to “feed” the scene.

In fact, there are now so many accounts operated by different German authorities that a nationwide agreement has become necessary. Otherwise, these different agents would be targeting each other with surveillance and monitoring.

Germany’s new government has taken an aggressive stance against anonymity on the web and free speech, and has targeted apps like Telegram, which is one of the few tech companies openly supporting free speech. Under a new regime, the German government is expected to open thousands of hate speech cases against the public every year.”

BBC Gloat Over UK Demographic Changes

Following the release in the week ending Friday 2nd December 2022 of the England and Wales results of the 2021 Census the anti-Briton Broadcasting Corporation was very quick off the mark with lies and disinformation. A role they have been celebrating this year as their Centenary. 100 years of Poison, Lies and Jimmy Savile!

Some formerly claiming to be racial nationalists have and will continue to use demographics as an excuse to throw in the towel or tell everyone very loudly that we are "Doomed. All Doomed!" or that "It is simply too late..."

The released figures from the Office for National Statistics do make for grim reading from the racial nationalist view but they should not be a surprise to any but the lowest IQ's.

The BBC decided to focus their reportage on Leicester in the English Midlands. (See table below).

The BBC used a crude combination of the 2021 Census results and quotes from immigrant ghetto community members and the offspring of miscegenation in sub-headlines such as 'I feel privileged to live in Leicester', 'Leicester is a classic example of how to work together'.

"Leicester is the most harmonious city in Europe".

On the front page of our previous issue #881 I wrote:

"Meanwhile... (around the death of HRH Queen Elizabeth II) Indians and Pakistanis Rioted for Weeks in Leicester:

Another White Minority British City and the BBC & the Rest of the MSM Lying Press Were SILENT!"

Native Britons Are Set to Become a Minority by 2066

Experts in the field of demography, including Professor Coleman of the University of Oxford, predict that if immigration and fertility rates continue as they are doing, then the "White British" will be a minority (less than 50% of the population) in the United Kingdom by 2066.

An interesting anniversary... 1,000 years.

Long or Short Coronation?

By Martin Crutwell

Surely the length of next May's Coronation Service for King Charles is irrelevant?

What is important is the meaning or lack of meaning of the content?

Since an obscure commentator (bit like the modern ones) called Walter Bagehot decided that the Monarch should be only allowed to advise, I submit that the Coronation has been a long-lasting charade. Bagehot admitted that the Monarch's role should be to keep the masses enthralled by pageantry while the real governing went on elsewhere. Pretty successful given the long queues to enter Westminster Hall and the Party political shambles we are now witnessing of power out of control.

What is entirely relevant is that since the "Glorious Revolution" of 1688 the separation of powers which kept power under control has been trashed. The Bill of rights commands the Sovereign to obey the will of Parliament.

We have a single chamber elective authority based upon French Revolutionary principles which Hailsham called "elective dictatorship".

The Coronation Oath, the promise to govern according to our laws and customs which presumably Charles will still take meaningless because the Sovereign has no Executive power. This has all been transferred to the "single chamber" Parliament.

We know this partly because ½ million signatures to the Queen to stop Heath in 1972 went unanswered, no doubt on "advice" and the people got 48 years of servitude to the Conservative Money Party.

My investigations confirm that the Sovereign does not give "Royal Assent" to any legislation personally, this is carried out by a committee of the Lords!

'We are now experiencing what it is like when power gets out of control and corruption ensues.

Covid and then Net Zero are money scams.

King Charles could insist in the return of Royal powers to protect the people and restore the constitution, but until the people understand how they have been duped by party politicians he won't, because he would be accused of playing politics. Confined to playing his charitable role the meaningless Oath will be ritually taken next May, unless the people wake up and demand better.

Therefore, I recommend Ben Greene's "The British Constitution and the Corruption of Parliament".

Albert Mariner, The NF & The 'Forgotten' Tottenham Riot 1983

By Stephen Smith

From 1967 - 1986 Great Britain's foremost Racial - Nationalist organisation was the National Front.

Britain in 1983, although declining and containing the political seeds of its potential destruction, was a relative 'paradise' compared to the chaos and evil that is contemporary Britain. Albert Mariner (NF member) was a former British soldier from East London. He served during WW2 in North Africa and Italy. He joined the National Front in 1974.

Albert Mariner, 1920 - 1983, was an Englishman and Briton of the style we see fewer of today. Quiet, unassuming and courageous.

I first met Albert Mariner in the spring of 1982. We were both members of the old National Front (not the pitiful shambles using the name today) and campaigning for the party during the London local borough elections taking place that year. Albert was a candidate for the Tower Hamlets branch. Initially he struck me as an austere grandfather figure. His demeanour was undoubtedly due to his serious attitude to Nationalist politics. Our politics. Once I got to know him I discovered that he was a friendly soul, generous with books and advice and possessing a subtle, almost disguised sense of humour. Then again he was entitled to be serious looking.

Albert was born in 1920 in Stepney, East London, not long after the end of WW1. He served in the British army from 1939-1945 (see exclusive photograph Front page). As far as I can recall from conversations with him during the Second World War, he served in North Africa and Italy. He grew up in the poverty stricken East End of the 1920s/1930s (no White privilege then?) and by the end of the latter decade, along with millions of others, was involved in the most (so far!) cataclysmic war in recorded history. Hence the austere impression he sometimes gave people.

Albert joined the National Front in 1974 and apart from being a local election candidate in 1978 and 1982 was also Literature Sales Officer for Tower Hamlets branch. Most Sundays for a decade Albert would arrive at Brick Lane street market, Bethnal Green, East London and sell party literature, often starting at 8am. Dedicated. During the 1981 GLC London elections Albert suffered a mild heart attack (when out leafletting!) which he quickly recovered from and continued as an NF activist. Albert never caused political problems within the party. An ordinary man and thoroughly decent. He had good artistic ability too (drawing). He used to create his own stickers with political messages that he often gave to young patriots.

Tottenham By-Election

In May 1983 there was a GLC by-election in Tottenham, North London. The NF decided to hold a public election meeting on behalf of our candidate. The meeting was to take place on the evening of Tuesday 3rd May 1983. Haringey council wanted to stop the meeting through legal action but the judge ruled in our favour. Anyway this was our right under the Representation of the Peoples Act. It was only late afternoon, that day, that we got the go ahead to hold the meeting. Due to various factors only 45 NF members turned up for the event. Tower Hamlets branch attended; Albert, Peter (Organiser), Vic, Eddy and me. When we got to Tottenham Hale Underground train station there was a slightly surreal atmosphere, almost a sense of foreboding.

While we waited at the station Martin Webster and Ian Anderson were negotiating with a senior police officer. The police officer informed them that, they (the police) couldn't guarantee the safety of NF members. His 'advice' was for us to all go home! Martin Webster then returned and told us what the police had recommended and if anyone felt uncomfortable or wanted to use their travelcard (!) they could return to their homes. Not one single person opted for this escape option. Regardless of age, gender or poor health, we were going there as a group. At times our enemies whether they be the state, reds or different cultures seriously underestimate the stubborn courage of British Nationalists.

'That Leaflet'

Just before the meeting we didn't realise that Haringey Labour Party, operating out of the town hall (they controlled the local authority) had produced and distributed a leaflet which immediately inflamed the local Afro-Caribbean community. This hysterical leaflet 'informed' the black populace of Tottenham that if the NF ever gained a foothold in the area they would endure misery, discrimination and violence. The leaflet also advised any potentially angry demonstrators where to assemble on the 3rd May in order to 'greet' the National Front before the meeting. These were the days before mobile phones and the internet. Thus, awaiting us that night was a mob of 600 plus virtually 99% Afro-Caribbean with a sprinkling of red agitators. Always interesting how reds will often use ethnic minorities for their own cynical ends. The machinations of the Haringey Labour Party (and the leaflet) were the key factor in inciting people to violently 'demonstrate' against us. Without agitation, I very much doubt that elements of the local population would have turned up to oppose us. The only groups who consistently monitored our activities were the state and the schizoid, neurotic left.

The NF's brave National Activities Organiser, Martin Webster, informed our group at the station that once we turned the corner and headed towards the meeting we were expecting a very hostile reception! Regardless the slender NF column started to make its way to the school building where the meeting was to have taken place. The police escort which attached itself to us was loose and shambolic. Huge gaps between individual officers. The police were not being awkward with us or deliberately malevolent, they just seemed jaded, fatigued.

As always (in those times anyway) ordinary uniformed police were generally good types. Inspector upwards was where the problems started. Whoever was ultimately in charge of police operations that day must have realised that the meeting was due to start at 8pm yet the unruly mob of six hundred had been assembled near the school hall since 5.15pm!

The Meeting

When we turned the corner, hell erupted. A sea of bodies moving towards us. Chanting, abuse, threats and our little column was under immediate attack. Apparently, beforehand, a local builders merchants had been broken into, which meant we were heavily pelted with a variety of objects; bricks, tiles, paving slabs, timber, stones and bottles. The police only made sporadic attempts to arrest our assailants, though it must be noted that individual police officers acted with considerable courage.

Despite being outnumbered by odds of 12-1 and also the fact that our contingent probably only contained around 25 fit young men we successfully held off our attackers with the traditional valour of the British Nationalist. If anyone disputes this part of the account then simple logic prevails. If we hadn't fought back, many of us would be dead!

Eventually despite endless bombardment and physical attacks we managed to get into the hall. Two things I clearly remember going into the building was an ambulance parked nearby and Albert receiving treatment and a police sergeant talking to his immediate senior, an inspector, the sergeant slightly berating his senior with the words.. "Sir, sir, what do we do, what do we do?". The inspector seemed motionless, paralyzed with fear. Rioting was still going on in the background.

The NF assembled in the hall ready for our meeting. Unfortunately the police let in also 50 members of Haringey Labour party including the Mayor (and Labour councillor) Brian Bullard. As Ian Anderson tried to speak to open the meeting his voice was drowned out by a hideous cacophony of left-wing middle-class women (?) who continually made Red Indian squaw noises. Free speech eh comrades?

The NF candidate John Donegan tried to speak but he was drowned out by red noise as well. The police did nothing. Eventually the bulk of our opponents left after about 30 minutes with the Mayor leading the way. Some anti-NF individuals remained. A few. They asked spurious questions or made insulting remarks about the candidate. Martin Webster successfully, verbally, put them in their place. They left soon after. Time was running out, so no opportunity for political speeches, apart from Martin Webster pointing out that we are the real defenders of democracy, free speech etc. When we left the building our opponents had gone, the road was relatively empty apart from a mass of debris: broken glass, stones, wood, rubble and all of the general detritus that had been aimed at us. The workmen who were repairing this road would have discovered the following morning that their materials were scattered all over the street.

Some of our people who had vehicles had gone home leaving around 30 of us to get the underground train. A small contingent of uniformed police officers traveled with us in the train carriage for two stops. They informed us that a welcoming committee, ie. further potential violence from the local population, may be present at the next station. Their actions seemed slightly odd. Their group (uniformed police officers) was headed by a sergeant and some 5 or 6 constables. Not sure whether they were under orders, just wanted to get rid of us or where possibly sympathetic I suspect sympathetic. We all got out at Kings Cross station and had a couple of drinks, discussing the night's events. As mentioned earlier, Albert was seen near an ambulance receiving medical treatment. Found out later that he had been struck on the head with a brick as we were entering the meeting hall. Two other Nationalists got in the ambulance with him, then the vehicle drove off towards the nearest hospital. Seeing Albert near that ambulance was the last time I ever saw him. The following evening the NF returned to the area for final leafleting, 30 activists with a minimal police presence ie. one squad car! We were determined to go back and finish the political work. Why be afraid after what we went through the previous night!

Albert's Injury

On the morning of Wednesday 4th May, the two main national tabloids, The Sun and the Daily Mirror, reported on our meeting. Both had banner headlines with the words 'National Front Riot,' as if we were responsible for the violence that evening. Later that day, Graham John, NF Directorate member, went to Albert's flat in Stepney, East London to see if he was alright after his injury. Albert answered the door, a bit groggy, after receiving his nasty head injury. However, Albert told Graham he didn't feel too bad, nothing to worry about. He had discharged himself from hospital last night and another Nationalist had given him a lift home. Albert having seen conflict in WW2 was not someone to make too much of a fuss about his injury. Graham was the last person to see Albert alive.

NF Paper Sales at Brick Lane

Four days later. Sunday 8th May. The usual NF crowd was at Brick Lane market selling party literature. Someone was missing though. Albert normally got to the market around 8.30am. He never showed up at any point that morning. At lunchtime Vic Clark and Eddy Butler decided to drive to Albert's flat to see if he was OK. I went to get our local organiser, Peter Lacey, to tell him about Albert's non-appearance at Brick Lane. We got into a car and also headed off for Albert's flat. First thing, Peter and I noticed was a police car outside Albert's block. As we made our way to Albert's front door we found a policeman outside. As we approached he asked us what we wanted. We explained we were friends of Mr Mariner. The officer quietly and politely informed us.. "Very sorry to tell you this but Mr Mariner is dead". Didn't sink in at first. We were both stunned. A second policeman emerged from the flat and locked the front door. The first officer asked us to come down to the station and answer some routine questions concerning what had happened to Albert. He also said your friends Mr Clark and Mr Butler are already there. We agreed and drove to the police station. Saw Vic Clark and Eddy Butler in the foyer. Both sad and slightly shocked. Another uniformed officer invited me and Peter into a room. He asked us some standard questions about Albert's death. No sinister agenda here. It was genuinely routine. Peter and myself explained we were in the National Front, we mentioned the Tuesday night meeting and Albert's injury. The policeman showed no overt hostility to our political beliefs. The interview soon ended and the four of us left the station and headed home.

Above: Early 1980's. Albert Mariner with an armful of National Front News ready to sell to the public and supporters on a Sunday morning at Brick Lane in the old East End of London.

Later, it emerged that Albert had been dead for about four days due to a fatal heart attack. He had laid there in his flat all that time. Likely he died at some point after the visit by Graham John. When someone dies in this manner, it's sometimes difficult to ascertain the full facts. One thing that cannot be denied; the head injury from the brick thrown at him led directly to his death! He was 63 years old.

Shortly after, I went to the flat with Peter to requisition materials (literature, merchandise etc) that belonged to Tower Hamlets NF. It was a grisly task. Spring/Summer 1983 was exceptionally hot. Poor Albert's body had been on the floor quickly decomposing. He was a big fellow. About 6' 1/2" and possessing a powerful build, similar to an old fashioned East End docker. We had to throw away the majority of papers and books, they reeked of the noxious smell of death.

His funeral (well attended by Nationalist comrades) took place late in May 1983. His impressive headstone bears the message 'A true son of St George'. The party paid for the headstone. He was a comrade and a friend. We wanted to remember him.

A.M.P.I.C.

After Albert's funeral the National Front and Martin Webster were not going to forget about the riot which resulted in his death. The NF set up A.M.P.I.C. (Albert Mariner Public Inquiry Committee) and distributed leaflets, posters and stickers demanding a Public Inquiry. We demanded that the authorities conduct a thorough investigation into the Tottenham riot. How and why events unfolded and who was responsible for instigating the violence directed against the NF. After all there had been Public Inquiries into the troubles at previous NF events. Red Lion Square 1974 where red student, Kevin Gately died. Southall 1979 where red teacher Blair Peach died. In 1974 the reds tried (and failed) to stop an NF parade. In 1979 the red Anti-Nazi League mobilised thousands of Asians to demonstrate against a legitimate NF Public Election meeting. Both these events, same as Tottenham 1983, saw deliberate and organised red violence!

For us, on this occasion, however, there were to be no inquiries or investigations. Silence reigned. Martin Webster wrote to the Metropolitan Police Commissioner. No reply. The media, despite receiving numerous press statements from us also silent. The big tabloid headlines of the 4th May were the only serious press attention. Notice the contradiction in treatment between 1974/1979 and Tottenham 1983! One gains the impression that the last thing the Metropolitan Police wanted to do was fully examine what happened in Tottenham on the evening of Tuesday 3rd May 1983. Any serious police probe would have meant questioning Haringey Labour Party and black community leaders. Imagine if there were prosecutions? This was a can of worms that must never be opened. Factor in also that Tottenham, North London was not only a riot zone in 1983 but became one in 1985 and 2011!

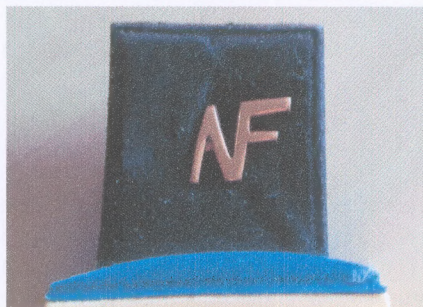

Fear of the 'Mob'

Any serious inquiry could have sparked another riot in 1983. Bear in mind that Britain had seen inner-city riots in 1980 (Bristol) and Brixton (1981) and in July 1981 riots across the country. The police and the Establishment wanted a quiet life. This was exemplified further on, over the decades, with a feeble half-hearted attempt to apprehend the real killers of P.C. Keith Blakelock murdered during the Tottenham riots of 1985. He died only 2 1/2 years after our election meeting, in the same postcode. Despite the acquittals of the wrongly convicted, no serious attempt has been made to catch the culprits. If the police top brass weren't that bothered about P.C. Blakelock why would they be bothered about an elderly British Nationalist!

In July 1983 we marched through central London protesting about the lack of state interest into Albert's death. A decent march, about 600-700 of us. Originally we had planned to march through Tottenham or Islington, north London. Both these options were banned by the police. We held a rally near Holborn. Still the state's response was absolute silence. The state just wanted this matter to go away.

From 1984-1986 the NF organised parades in central London in early May in remembrance of Albert.

Memories

Albert Mariner's Gold NF badge. This was only awarded to especially dedicated activists. A timely reminder that British racial nationalism must, now more than ever, embrace only quality and true commitment.

Albert was a talented artist. Tower Hamlets had a canvass branch banner we would take on marches. Artwork was created by him. This impressive political mural had a wonderful image of Tower Bridge in the centre. (See photograph right!) The banner was later acquired by Tower Hamlets BNP and featured in two marches we held in East London during our 'Rights for Whites' campaigns. Albert would have been proud. He understood (as only a British Nationalist could understand) that our resistance to the liberal, cosmopolitan society (imposed upon us!) doesn't come from a thousand university lectures or obscure literature, It comes from the heart, from our ethno-cultural soul. Instinctively.

Nationalist band Skrewdriver recorded a song in his honour called 'Sick Society'. Listen to the lyrics! (You can find it on youtube if you look a little).

On the 4th May 2023 it will be the 40th anniversary of Albert's death. Wherever you are in the White Nationalist world (especially the Anglophone world) find a few moments to salute an old comrade. Not just another patriot, but a Racial-Nationalist. A man who served in Britain's military, in the 1940s, in the deserts of Libya/Egypt, the mountains of Italy, only to tragically meet his end going to a lawful, public election meeting in vibrant, inner-city London! His experiences and ultimate fate, in microcosm sums up what has happened to Britain. Our Britain.

Only serious, legal, intelligent political action carried out with dynamism and will power can save us from the national and cultural abyss that awaits us and is now in clear view. Joseph Stalin once commented that..."The British are skilful and stubborn opponents..". He didn't under estimate the real quality of our people. The present liberal Establishment do under estimate us.....thus our eventual victory!

Albert Mariner 1920 - 1983

According to the authorities when Albert's body was found on the 8th of May he had been dead for four days. It is generally accepted that Albert was struck by a brick hurled by a cowardly member of a violent mob on the 3rd of May, 1983, and died the next day. Coincidence?

The Metropolitan Police certainly publicly presented the impression that they thought so.

I am sure we can all imagine the police effort and inquiry that would have followed had the roles been reversed...

Albert Mariner's funeral was on Tuesday, the 24th of May, 1983.

Successful John Tyndall/ Colin Jordan/ Richard Edmonds Memorial Meeting Preston 25th September 2022

Over seventy nationalists from different parties and groups attended the Heritage and Destiny 2022 Richard Edmonds, Colin Jordan & John Tyndall Memorial Meeting, held in Preston, Lancashire on Sunday 25th September.

The first such meeting in five years.

The meeting was again very ably Chaired by Keith Axon a former NF & BNP organiser and longstanding friend of both John Tyndall and Richard Edmonds.

For the first time the meeting featured two women speakers one of whom was the fourth international speaker to feature in ten or so such meetings. Spaniard Isabel Peralta, age 20, on her first visit to our shores had to endure a six-hour detention and interrogation by the UK Border Force (what a wonderful job they do!) before being allowed into our once free land. Hopefully she has now been reunited with her laptop and mobile phone which they seized.

A great line up of speakers began with:

Benny Bullman of the Rock Against Communism band WITELAW who gave a fine tribute to our, late, great comrade Ian Stuart of SKREWDRIVER. (Next year will be the 30th anniversary of Ian's death.)

Laura Towler then explained the cultural mission of Patriotic Alternative, which for the past three years has been fighting to get across the message that White Lives Matter - using a range of activities.

Isabel Peralta (speaking in Spanish with an English translation being read by Peter Rushdon) explained that our faith in the true European cause is capable of moving mountains. Our activists are not swayed by careerist considerations or media hostility. A passionate speech. Well received.

Dr Jim Lewthwaite Chairman of the British Democrats hailed the breakdown of the multiracial, multicultural experiment. Based partly on his father's experiences in the British Raj as well as recent events in Leicester, Jim argued that the non-White takeover of many towns and cities was now leading to intense conflict between rival non-white factions. The British Dems are now attracting significant numbers of experienced activists as well as those new to racial nationalism.

Professor John Kersey educationalist and musician, gave a cogent analysis of the burgeoning threats to traditional British values and freedoms.

Stephen Frost - National Secretary of the British Movement reminded us that the task ahead is to spread the message of our cause by any and every means and format and bring increasing numbers to realisation of the essential truth of our values.

Peter Rushdon historian and author of the new Real History blog pointed out that the previous Preston Memorial Meeting was back in 2017 which was the year that 'woke' entered the Oxford English Dictionary. Wokeness means the opposite of 'awake' - it means passive acceptance (Ed. I would also suggest very aggressive acceptance) of the surrender of our civilisation. More than a century ago the early Labour movement's anthem was not the Red Flag but England Arise - which included lines that would today be supported by more adherents of our cause than by modern leftists.

Mark Cotterill closed the meeting by thanking the attendees, the hall owners, the British Movement's Womens Division for providing the excellent buffet and the British Movement Leader Guard who carried out their duties efficiently and ensured the safety of the speakers and audience.

As Candour Editor I was proud to run a stall, selling many of our A.K. Chesterton Trust publications, at the meeting. At future meetings I should have a choice of new banners available to advertise the stall. Please see The Candour EXTRA! (Subscribers Only) with this issue for the BANNER APPEAL information.

Film Programme Notes

By Colin Todd

England, Whose England?

(1973 UK. Colour. 25 minutes).

At the end of the 1980's when the then Official National Front decided to evacuate 50 Pawsons Road, Croydon, CRO 2QF, London, the characters who then held the keys to the property such as Derek Holland and Patrick Harrington decided to destroy the history of the true National Front, which was packed into the attic, rooms and basement, by throwing it unceremoniously into skips for the tip. Such was their complete contempt for the sacrifices and efforts made over many years by many valiant people who they regarded as 'scum'. People who are now mostly entirely forgotten. (Just another reason to remember Albert Mariner and I venture to suggest through him so many others. Our own Veterans Day?).

(How many millions of stickers, posters and leaflets did the unassuming address 50 Pawsons Road appear on I wonder?).

One decent chap was present and took what he could save from that 'bonfire of the vanities' by the mummy's boys who operated under the influence of the Italian who destroyed the National Front. The same dark Mediterranean character would later be behind the strange implosion and collapse of the British National Party using his continuing puppet Nick Griffin and some of the same characters.

Chris Marchant from Croydon later delivered the few items he saved to me at Forest House (the much beloved home of Miss Rosine de Bouneville and my predecessor as Editor of Candour, which would later be flogged off and demolished by the same Italian and his 'Trad' Catholic puppets. Can you see a pattern of attacking British racial nationalism and its traditions here? Much more to follow in later editions of Candour).

Among the items literally rescued from a skip were the historic Lewisham 1977 banner which I later had the privilege of handing over to Richards Edmonds at the end of a Heritage & Destiny John Tyndall Memorial Meeting in Preston some years ago. (I wonder where that is now?).

If you think I have forgotten what this column is about I confess I have wandered somewhat. This column is NOT about film reviews but history and rare information related to film that I hope you find of interest and use. Now. To the point. Also handed to me was a large reel of film in a round blue plastic cannister with a faded label. England, Whose England?. I had heard of it at some forgotten point in my racial nationalist journey thus far. This was exciting and a believed 'lost film'. (I will do more research when time allows but this is all from my

Good News Report

The Bridge so Near... a small political 'bridgehead' to the British people "From small acorns..."

British Democrats - By-Election - Noak Bridge Parish Council (Basildon Borough) Essex

The British Democratic Party (BDP/Brit Dems) achieved an interesting and deserved political victory on October 13th 2022 when candidate Chris Bateman won a parish council seat in Noak Bridge.

Campaigning on a balanced mix of local and national issues and, although this is of course a parish ward, Chris and the BDP won a clear and comprehensive victory:

Chris Bateman - BDP - 248 votes (74%)

Charlie Sanson - Independent - 80 (24%)

Despite there only being two candidates contesting the ward (no LibLabCon) the Brit Dems punched above their weight to victory.

The following should be noted:

a). The public are not at present familiar with the British Dems name.

b). The other candidate was an established local personality with many friends/family in the area.

c). The other candidate was a former Chairman of South Basildon (Essex) Conservatives.

d). The other candidate attempted to smear the BDP using social media suggesting people should vote for him in order to... "stop the far-right". (His emphasis).

Despite these factors the Brit Dem's Chris Bateman won handsomely.

- Intelligent, focused, hard work and the precision organisation of the BDP's Mike Jones and the endeavour of a compact group of activists enabled the party to make this breakthrough. Simple, basic, skilful electioneering. Meticulous door-to-door canvassing, personal contact revisiting supporters, concentrated leafleting, were the winning tactics.

- The leaflet produced was an A4 double-sided colour effort (quality) which mainly concentrated on local issues but still noted the patriotic nature of the BDP.

A name check to: Chris Bateman, Mike Jones, Lawrence R., Paul and the rest of the Noak Bridge activist team.

Election Communication - Noak Bridge ward by-election - Thursday 13th October

Vote Christopher Bateman for Noak Bridge Parish Council

Dear Resident,

Your concerns are my concerns, as I live in Noak Bridge too.

I have lived in this area since I was a young boy (my family moved here in 1989), and I genuinely care about our local community.

I'm not standing at this by-election for the fame or fortune, as this parish council seat I'm contesting is a voluntary position. I'm standing because I want to make Noak Bridge a better place to live for all of the residents here.

Protecting our green spaces from overdevelopment is essential to me as I want to keep a village feel in our community.

No task would be too much for me.

I'm an approachable guy, and communication with my fellow local residents is important for me.

If elected, I will work hard on your behalf.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or issues that you would like me to address.

Campaigning on your behalf,

Christopher Bateman

The following is an email response to our blog (see our website) of October 28th in which I reprinted The Stranger by Kipling and referenced the 100th Anniversary of the March on Rome. Candour brings together great people.

Editor,

The "Stranger Within My Gate" is a timeless masterpiece and I re-read it all the time. Thanks for publishing!

Talking about Di Fascisti in Italy in 1922: My mother Terèse was born in the Italian Quarter in South Philadelphia (USA) in 1920. Something like fifty thousand Italians lived there at the time. Her mother Véta spoke strictly Italian, my grandfather Giovanni spoke excellent English due to his work as a petrol engineer. The strains of "Ala Fascista" would be heard playing on the family Victrola (record player) frequently. Il Duce was a great hero among many Italian immigrants to the U.S.A.

"Reservoirs"

Regarding recent correspondents' desire for more reservoirs in order to cope with rising demand. A demand caused by globalist parties of different colours driving the population explosion. Climate change may, or may not, be a contributing factor but clever management by SWW (South West Water) should offset this, at least for now.

Having sufficient water to sustain the population is a valid concern, but the notion of more reservoirs, plus of course, housing, roads, municipal buildings et cetera is not a sustainable solution in the long run.

Accommodating an exploding population may allow virtue signaling and social media mutual hugs; but is a soulless concrete jungle supported by man made lakes a good prospect for our children?

Crammed and little more than financial units for the manipulation of both right and left politicians is a looming disaster for them and our flora and fauna.

Better that we get a grip on our borders and carry out large scale repatriation. Thereby giving our children room to breath, play and grow and also of course, protecting our environment. All of which the Green Party along with all the other main stream parties have no real care for at all.

Let's keep Devon (and England for that matter), a green and pleasant land.

Yours faithfully,
John Ings."

Editor comments: Candour subscriber John writes a clear letter and does not makes the error of trying to hit 100 targets at the same time.

John also made an interesting additional comment to me which is that the circulation of our, surviving, local newspapers is falling like a rock down a well but that those who still read the local press are the more informed and most likely to be involved in community activities. The hardcore, perhaps older, but not all, locals who have ROOTS!

Let us all make maximum use of our local newspapers and broadcasters while they still exist whilst always stepping up the work to build our own media to replace them.

NEW ARTICLES for Candour ALWAYS WANTED

To be subscribing to and reading Candour you must have an opinion. Either it is entirely ours, which I have always thought unlikely, or you have recollections or ideas you want to put down on paper. Yes, the old A4 pad and a biro. Surround yourself with balls of paper, scrunched up in frustration and hurled wide of the waste paper basket, but at least have a go. You may feel better for it! I usually do.

not too brilliant memory). It was in 16mm format and I believe the only copy ever in existence. The film was made primarily with the financial backing of the Monday Club and featured National Front members (although that is not actually acknowledged in the film and using skilful editing no actual NF banners or placards are seen but you may glimpse the occasional badge worn by marchers). This would seem to be the peak of the collaboration between the Monday Club and the NF. This was crushed by the Tory hierarchy and the diesoft Tories soon scamp-ered back to the homes of all cowardly racial renegades. Civic nationalism and or the Conservative Party. (This could be seen as a prime example of a state attempt to hi-jack and influence radical racial sentiment in the British Isles while some of the NF leadership of the time may have argued they were working it in the opposite direction. The odds were rather against that!)

The NF people interviewed are from the Midlands, Bradford and Southall in London and obviously at the end of their tether. Ignored or sneered at as 'Alf Garnett's' by the smug and self-chosen elite. Nothing much changes does it?

Film Lost, Found, Lost Again...

During my recent tribulations a great amount of original nationalist history and treasure was lost. Including the original film reel of England. Whose England?

Fortunately for posterity I had the 16mm reel converted to VHS and later to DVD and at least one person put it up on the youtube.

However I am now without a copy of England, Whose England? in any format all! Does anyone out there reading this (I will expand the search after this issue goes out) have a copy on VHS or DVD that you could send/lend me?

Candour SAY's Bring Back KING COAL

The Tories destroyed the British coal industry almost overnight as part of a vendetta against the white working man's Trade Unions.

I know they had been taken over by commies. They worked harder than others did to control the unions.

It also suited the bosses that it be so!

The British miners were Lions led to extinction.

As the Global Warming Scam tightens its grip on the remains of the common sense of our folk and reality bites with the next fresh Arctic breeze we must be in areas where coal was once king! White working class communities that were not decimated (that means only 'one in ten') but completely destroyed and left with NO hope almost four decades ago!

Racial Nationalists MUST rethink. We are not Tories in disguise. We leave that to the 'civics'.

Big hearted coal miners in Pennsylvania USA take a break and lend a hand to help a young couple by pushing an electric car that ran out of power near their pit to the next plug socket. At their mine on the horizon...

A K Chesterton

The three new banner designs, above, have been put together for us by the friend of Candour and grandson of Lieutenant - Colonel John Creagh Scott, D.S.O., O.B.E., who was a leading founder of the League of Empire Loyalists in 1954, and author of Hidden Government first published by the Britons Publishing Society in 1954. (We, the A.K. Chesterton Trust, reprinted the authorised Fifth Edition in 2017 which is always available from our online store www.candour.org.uk).

It is a great story that a grandson is following in his grandad's footsteps and in his Introduction to the book writes "My hero, my Grandfather. Rest in Peace." I am so proud that we have the title on our list of publications for which great thanks also to Rob Black.

The banners will be printed on vinyl 6' x 2' and the cost for all three should be £75.00.

It would be great if three people would step forward with £25 each to cover the cost.
